New restaurants & hotels headed this way

■ English-style pub and a sushi restaurant head for Southport; city eyes hotel partnership in prime riverfront project

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento may soon experience a "mini-boom" of hotel construction and chain restaurants. Three more chain hotels are in the works for the city's west side, and redevelopment officials hope to help finance a higher-end hotel project along the river.

The city's West Capitol Avenue was once a thriving strip of characterful, independent motels geared towards the east-west traveler. When the new Pioneer Bridge was built to take U.S. 50 over the river, though, travelers all but stopped using West Capitol. Many of the old motels fell by the wayside, others struggled and became havens for prostitution or opportunities for last-chance housing.

A few soldiered on – with some of the independents appearing to prosper in the current days.

Meanwhile, interest in the city from "chain" hotels was meager. A Motel 6 has long been a fixture near the freeway and Harbor Boulevard, and a neighboring hotel built in the 1990s is now a Ramada Inn.

This decade has seen construction of a Holiday Inn Express on Evergreen Avenue, north of U.S. 50, and an Extended StayAmerica near I-80 and Stillwater Road.

Other new chains may soon be up and running.

"There's the Hampton Inn under construction on Stillwater," said David Tilley, a planner for the city. "The Hampton is part of the Hilton chain, so it's more than a budget motel. It's under construction now and will open hopefully by the end of the year."

The Hampton will offer 110 rooms.

And there's a 76-room Hawthorn Suites (another "extended stay" brand) in the works for the west end of West Capitol. The brand is part of the Hyatt family.

A 63-room La Quinta Inn has been approved by the planning commission for Lake Road, near Enterprise Blvd. and U.S. 50 as well.

The city hopes to help bring a higher-star hotel to the other end of town, along the Sacramento River. The West Sacramento Redevelopment hopes to finance up to $250 million with bonds to build a publicly financed and operated hotel similar to the workings of Sacramento's Sheraton Grand.

The new hotel would go on about five acres just south of the "ziggurat" building, on the "River One" property. Panattoni Development Company has an option to buy the property, could house a hotel, condominiums, offices and other uses.

The city does not expect to need the full $250 million that it is seeking approval to generate.

If the project goes forward, the city would look for a hotel partner.

West Sacramento is also seeing some new restaurants on the horizon, including an English-style pub restaurant in Southport.

Planner David Tilley reports that the "Streets of London" pub, a "Panda Express" and a "Tsuki Sushi" restaurant are under construction at Westbridge Plaza, near Lowe's on Lake Washington Boulevard.

A second West Sacramento Taco Bell is planned for Riverpoint Marketplace, near Home Depot and Walmart. So is an "In N Out" hamburger stand.

A "Ruby Tuesday" restaurant is being negotiated for the Riverpoint center as well – but no application has been received for it by the city, said Tilley.

House fire snubbed

Firefighters responded to a house on fire on the 1600-block of Virginia Avenue last Wednesday morning. A resident of the home was treated at UC Davis Medical Center, and a firefighter was treated for heat exhaustion and then released. The cause of the fire was under investigation.

Residents of the home were provided with temporary housing by the Red Cross, said a fire department spokesperson.

Also last week, West Sacramento firefighters continued to participate in "strike teams" battling the "MEU Complex" fire in Mendocino and the "Butte Fire" in Paradise. The local firefighters have received expressions of gratitude from residents near those fires, and Butte College gave West Sacramento firefighters "What Would We Do Without You" awards.

Congress approves $4.25 million for West Sac levees

Congressman Mike Thompson reports that $4.25 million for the West Sacramento Flood Control Project is in the Congressional energy and water appropriations bill for fiscal year 2009.

"The safety of West Sac residents and economic prosperity of the area heavily depend on ensuring West Sac's levees meet new federal safety standards," the First-District Democrat said in a press release. "I am pleased that the flood risks facing this area were taken very seriously by the House Appropriations Committee and my request for funding was granted."

Thompson's office added that the Sacramento area is viewed as the nation's second-most flood prone area behind New Orleans.

Changing world food market may help Port revive niche for bulk rice

The Port of Sacramento reports that its first shipment of "bulk rice" in over two years was being loaded in late June. The port has averaged almost 200,000 tons of "bagged" rice annually.

The new "bulk" shipment included rice grown in the counties of Butte, Colusa, Glen, Sutter, Yolo and Yuba. The 25,000 metric ton shipment was headed to Puerto Rico, said Port Director Mike Luken.

"We're very pleased to see this part of our business coming back," said port commission chairman Mike McGowan in a press statement. "Agricultural exports and bulk rice in particular have historically played an important role for the port, and we look forward to more of these shipments in the future."

Port officials credited "changes in the global rice market, such as the increasing use of food crops for the production of bio-fuels" with making California rice more sought-after abroad.

"Looking forward, we anticipate additional bulk and container rice shipments from California to traditional markets in the Middle East and potentially Puerto Rico in response to export bans from China, Egypt and other countries."

The port's silo in West Sacramento is the only silo in a California port that can handle bulk "milled," or food-grade, rice, said the port.

The shipment will be aboard the American-flagged Moku Pahu of Matson Lines. The rice will see a journey of about 15 days, through the Panama Canal to Puerto Rico.

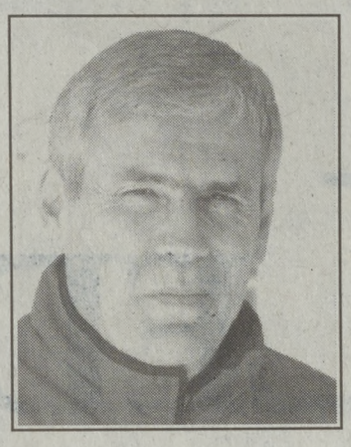
Guess which dogs are most likely to bite you

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

I was mindlessly surfing the Internet the other day when an article popped up entitled, "Surprising dog breeds to be wary of." It had been written by someone named Angie Felton and it asked the simple question, "When you think of dangerous dog breeds, which animal do you picture: a pit bull or a wiener dog?"

Ms. Felton then went on to say that "According to the results of research published in Applied Animal Behavior Science, the breed of dog most prone to aggression is the dachshund. New research that involved questioning 6,000 dog owners found that one in five dachshunds have bitten (or tried to bite) strangers, a similar number have attacked other dogs, and that one in 12 have even snapped at their owners."

Apparently prior research on dog aggression has focused solely on dog bite statistics, and using only that data, breeds like pit bulls, rottweilers, and Dobermans were thought to pose the most danger. But researchers now feel that prior studies were not painting a full picture, mostly because the majority of dog bites by smaller dogs tend to go unreported.

Chihuahuas, by the way, ranked second on the list of most aggressive dogs, while Jack Russell terriers came in third.

Ms. Felton also asked dog owners who read her article to email her back and answer the following question, "What do you think about the latest findings on dog breeds and aggression?" And here are just a few on the responses:

"The only difference is that a small dog will turn around and snap at people without warning, while a large dog will usually growl and warn you."

"It's not fair to stereotype an entire group based on the actions of a few."

"Small dogs are naturally defensive. They have to be!"

"Aggressive dogs come in all shapes and sizes. Any dog has the potential to bite no matter what size they are."

"While working for a vet, I was bitten by a large shepherd mix, a Yorkshire puppy, a Jack Russell terrier, a cocker spaniel and a schnauzer. So size has nothing to do with it."

"Cocker spaniels are the worst. They're nasty little things."

Anyway, the more I read, the more I began to realize that peoples' opinions about which dogs are the most aggressive depend almost entirely on their own personal experiences with breeds they have either owned or encountered. For instance, as far as I'm concerned, the Doberman pinscher is easily the most aggressive dog on the planet because when I was ten years old one of them chased me all over West Sacramento, growling and snapping at my ankles and legs the entire time. My only crime had been that I had innocently strolled up to the unlocked screen door of a Sacramento Bee subscriber to collect the $1.75 he owed me for the paper I had been tossing on his doorstep for a month. The actual handing over of the money went well, but as I started to pedal my bike away from the house, the screen door suddenly exploded open and the terrifying chase was on! I'm also not that partial to terriers, either, because the one that lived at my parents' house for ages bit me in the face the day I returned from Vietnam, having apparently completely forgotten that I was a member of the family.

So, wanting to get a better idea if dachshunds really are more aggressive than such dogs as pit bulls, rottweilers, and Dobermans, I decided to contact a friend of mine (I'll call her Beth) who actually owns one, and our conversation went a little something like this:

"Hi Beth. I think I'm going to write a wiener dog expose' in my column this week, but before I get too far into it, I thought it might be best to contact an actual owner of one."

"First of all," said Beth sternly, "I own a dachshund, not a wiener dog. In fact, he has a very long and impressive pedigree, and his real title even begins with the word, `Sir'. But what do you mean, you're going to write an expose'?"

"Well," I began to explain, "I just learned that wiener dogs – I mean dachshunds – are actually more aggressive than pit bulls, rottweilers, and Dobermans. In fact, they're the most aggressive dog breed of all."

"And what fool told you that?"

"I read it in an article."

"You mean in a column like yours?"

"Yeah."

"Now why would you believe everything you read in a newspaper column? I certainly don't believe everything I read in yours."

"So," I said, "then you're saying that it has been your experience that dachshunds aren't really all that aggressive?"

"Are you going to quote me in your little expose'?"

"Probably."

"Then what I will say for the record is that dachshunds are known for their fierce loyalty and are extremely territorial. They are also very smart and clever dogs who only bark and bite for really good reasons."

"I see. So, what I guess I'm trying to find out is – for instance – if I was to walk up to your front door, knock on it, and be invited in, would I have to worry about your dachshund biting me?"

"You would if you write a stupid column trashing dachshunds!"

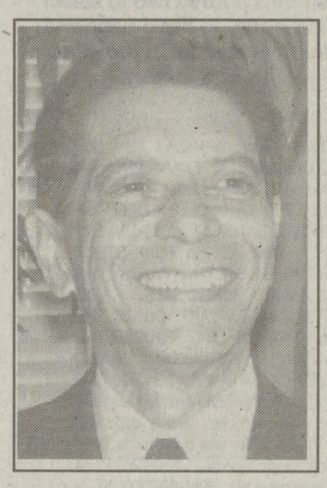
SPORTS

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa



By Richard Novoa

It really feels like summer vacation this week with Major League baseball at the All-Star break and the NFL, NBA and NHL all enjoying their time off. The only action in this boring week of sports is the competition from athletes around the United States as they fight for their spot on the Olympic team.

Or we can talk about Brett Favre and his newfound drama with his beloved Packers who are caught between a rock and a Favre spot. Favre, who held a new conference to months ago to announce his retirement from the NFL, wants to play again but the Packers have made their commitment to young quarterback Aaron Rodgers to lead their team in 2008.

If the Pack releases the old veteran quarterback he would be free to sign with the highest bidder. They did offer him the back up QB job, which Favre took as an insult. Can you imagine Brett throwing touchdown passes in a Chicago Bears uniform?

Also, there were rumors that home-run king Barry Bonds was going to suit up with the New York Mets or DH with the Boston Red Sox but 44 year-old 14-time All-Star with 762 career home runs remains out of uniform.

What about Ron Artest who is now demanding a trade. Ron-Ron wants to play for the Lakers or anybody else but the Kings. Los Angeles is very interested in Artest, whose $7.4 contract and court skills fit well in their organization. The Lakers supposedly offered Lamar Odom but the Lakers don't want to take Kenny Thomas and his hefty two-year $18 million contract as part of the deal.

I really don't care for the style of play Odom would bring to Sacramento especially with his expiring contract of $14.5 million, but I would welcome a deal with Miami that would bring Shawn Marion and his outrageous $17.1 million contract to the Capitol City. The key to moving unhappy Artest to any team revolves around the Kenny Thomas issue.

Diamond Notes

The Mid-Season report card is out on the Giants and A's, and considering the A's are riddled with injuries and the Giants are using most of their talent from the farm system both teams are still in the pennant race at the midway point of the season.

The Giants (39-55) needed their ace Tim Lincecum to pull them out of their six-game losing streak in Chicago. The G-Men, who are lucky to be in the West Division, are 8 games behind division leading Arizona.

The A's (51-44) who are only 6 games back and in second place are in pretty good shape but face a post-break schedule that includes 41 of 67 games on the road. The major league season resumes on Friday with the Oakland A's playing in New York against the Yankees while the Giants host the Milwaukee Brewers at AT & T Park.

The River Cats (58-39) enter the Triple-A All-Star break leading their division and seem right on target to make the playoffs for the second consecutive year. The Rio Gato's return to action at Raley Field for a four game series on Friday, July 18 against the Las Vegas.

Kings Korner

The Kings signed all three of their draft picks to rookie contracts and shipped them off to Las Vegas to play in the rookie summer league. The word from sizzling hot Las Vegas is that first round pick Jason Thompson debut was pretty good. The other two rookies Patrick Ewing Jr. and Sean Singletary didn't fare to well but Spencer Hawes dominated the rookie league team with 23 points and nine rebounds.

Between the Ropes

Elite XC promotions has teamed up with CBS to bring to the Stockton Arena a prime time event on Saturday, July 26th featuring a rematch between Scott Smith and Robbie Lawler. These two fellows had a controversial match on May 31st that ended in a no contest because Lawler inadvertently poked Smith in the eye. Tickets start $35 and can be purchased at www.stocktontickets.com. The nationally televised fight is scheduled for 3:15 p.m. start time to accommodate the east coast MMA fans.

Boxing returns at the end of the month on July 31st to the Red Lion Inn with Stan "The Man" Martyniouk and Brandon Gonzales headlining the card in separate bouts. Also, Tony "The Tiger" Lopez is jumping into the boxing promotion business with first promotion scheduled for Friday, August 8th from Raley Field.

Enjoy your day – see ya next week!

Heat-related trouble delays the re-opening of I-5

Plans have changed for the scheduled lane closures of I-5 in downtown Sacramento, reports Caltrans.

The southbound lanes of the freeway were scheduled to re-open yesterday morning. But high temperatures "prevented construction crews from being able to fully pave" during the closure, and the closure has been extended to 1 p.m. on Thursday.

The freeway will then be fully open until a final period when the northbound lanes are closed. But that closure has been delayed, and is now scheduled to last from 8 p.m. this Friday to 5 a.m. on Monday, July 28.

During the closures, local motorists are advised to avoid using area freeways during commute hours. They are also cautioned to expect delays on surface streets as I-5 travelers search for alternative routes.

GUEST COMMENTARY:

Yolo is sweating out the state budget

By Pat Leary, Assistant County Administrator

Temperatures over 105degrees aren't the only reason to sweat these days in Yolo County.

The state still doesn't have a budget and we at the county are sweating big time! It may seem like old news, mostly because it's the same story we hear every year about this time: "The state has once again missed its constitutional duty to pass a state budget by July 1." But this year is different. Counties throughout the state are scared.

It's not just the weather, or the fires. This year the state faces a ginormous shortfall in revenues. The last time the state had a fiscal crisis this large they turned to local governments' pockets and solved the problem with a shift of billions of dollars in property taxes away from cities, counties and special districts, and gave it to schools. Well and good, you might conclude – "I like schools." Except that schools didn't end up 10 cents the richer for it. Instead the state simply reduced the amount of money they pay for schools, dollar for dollar. It was a shell game where local governments ended up the losers.

A lot has happened since that property tax shift began 16 years ago, most of them having government-speak acronyms or insider-lingo like the "triple flip" and the "VLF swap." There's also a litany of voter-approved fixes like Proposition 172 (1/2 cent sales tax for public safety) and Proposition 1A (prohibits the state from taking local revenue without paying it back).

But the fundamental relationship between the state and counties is the unsolved Rubik's cube. It started off neat and orderly but now it's a jumbled mess. Counties run state programs. That's why we're scared. Not simply because programs may get reduced or eliminated, although we see the impacts of these actions at a local, human level. A recurring nightmare for counties is when the state reduces program spending they often require us to keep providing the program, or they reduce the amount and tell us to keep doing more with less.

The other aspect of our nightmare is how dependent we have become on the state. As a result of all of the flips and swaps, and shifts and other gyrations in the relationship between counties and the state, we are as dependent on the money we receive from the state as a diabetic is dependent on insulin. It isn't about extras – it's fundamental.

We have over $16 million currently "on the table" in the state budget; money that could be eliminated or reduced. Although Yolo County recently adopted its very tight budget, it didn't include any of these impacts because even though they are on the table, no one knows if they will happen or not. Worse yet is the fear of the unknown. There are a lot of very smart, clever people in the State Capitol, and they have brilliantly and creatively worked together in the past to come up with new and inventive ways to meet the state's needs at counties' expense. What else might they think of?

Lawmakers and the governor have a difficult and important task to complete. It will not be easy, and whatever the ultimate solution, there will be pain.

But in the meantime, we at the county will continue to sweat it out.

Practice burn delayed

County officials planned their annual "wildland training burn" for area firefighters last Saturday in western Yolo.

But the practice fire was delayed indefinitely.

The delay occurred indirectly because of the state's brush fire troubles in much of the rest of California.

Many Yolo County firefighters are busy helping to fight those fires, and the fires have brought poor air quality to this region.

That made for bad timing for a local practice burn, said a county spokesperson.

Are You Entitled to a Veterans Pension?

It's thought that more than 2 million eligible veterans aren't claiming their pension. This is money that's paid to wartime veterans age 65 or over with limited or little income. Under age 65, there must be permanent and total disability. Do you qualify?

Here are some of the criteria:

• You must have served at least one day in a designated war period, with a total of at least 90 days of military service. After 1980, you must have served at least 24 months.

• Your annual family income must be below a certain amount. This part is complicated and involves a computation of medical expenses and earnings, among other things.

• You cannot have a dishonorable discharge.

• You cannot already be receiving service-connected compensation.

If you're not sure if you qualify, your best bet is to fill out VA Form 21-526 and let the VA decide.

The form is a hefty 23 pages, but there are line-by-line instructions and tips. If you hook up with a Veterans Service Officer for help, don't agree to leave the form to be filled out for you to pick up later. Arrange to get help filling out the form on the spot. If you only have a question or two, call the toll-free number 1-800-827-1000.

Online go to www.vba.va.gov and put "Veterans Pension" in the search box. Scroll down and look for topics that include the words Veterans Pension. Be sure to look at the Periods of War for VA Benefits Eligibility to be sure your service dates fall within accepted time periods.

If you don't have Internet access, call the toll-free number and ask for the form to be sent to you. You'll also need a copy of your DD-214 to attach.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY NOTES

The Sacramento river registered three feet four inches, United States guage at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday. The tide now cuts considerable figure on the stage of the river, so much so that any figures given in the Independent, as is habitual, are not reliable owing to the variations made by the tide.

Fishing is a negligible industry in this section of the river at the present time. From reports from down stream points it appears that considerable salmon are being gathered by the fishermen, and even at up river points some fish are being caught. The salmon season closes on August 17th, to remain closed till the end of September.

The deer season opens on August 1st and many local young men have already made the necessary preparations for going out to get some wild meat. So far ten of the local men will be found at Bartlett Mountain, west of Williams, on the morning of August 1st, and many of their friends are looking for returns when they come back home.

Ed Wilson and wife are down from Pleasant Grove rusticating with friends in this locality. That metropolitan section is overflowing with visitors at the present writing.

Joseph Andrews, Jr., of Oakland, has been a visitor at the Bennett home during the past few days to remain for a week or two.

Leona Williams has been in the Sisters Hospital in Sacramento for several days under a physician's care for the removal of adenoids.

E. Steuben also underwent an operation in a Sacramento hospital for the removal of adenoids.

It seems extraordinary what an acute taste some men have cultivated for candy since they have been deprived of thir regular bitters. This has been noticeable since prohibition came and is all the more noticeable because soft drink places seem to have more revenue now from candies and sweets than they formerly had from intoxicating liquors. George Turner is one of those who has cultivated a fine tooth for candy, but his peculiarity is singular to himself, for while consuming candy he also gets away with a bottle of near-beer. This combination is so strange that his friends around town take great delight in watching him get away with a dose.

William Norton returned from the two weeks' outing at Santa Cruz last Thursday. The balance of the Norton family will be home early next week.

Ben Moss, still confined in a Sacramento hospital, is improving somewhat but is still in danger, his friends fearing that complications may set in which might prove dangerous.

Fire at the shipyards of the Sacramento Transportation Company last Tuesday evening was quickly subdued by the local volunteer fire department of Washington. Workmen at the shipyard were burning some weeds and the blaze got beyond control, communicating to a large pile of lumber that was about to be used in finishing a large barge. In less than ten minutes the fire was extinguished by the local volunteer fire department.

A suit for non-payment of wages was dismissed by Judge Barry last Tuesday against Joseph Nunes when the complainant refused to prosecute. The suit originated in a co-partnership in land in the Lisbon District, and was settled without trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Jasper, with the Misses Nondis and Maida Jasper, have gone to their home in Wheatland after returning from a visit in St. Helena, where they were accompanied by Mrs. F. L. White, Jr.

Mrs. Frank De Riso and son, John, have returned from a visit in Lamoine with Mr. and Mrs. Frank De Riso, Jr.

Ross Wilson of Woodland was in Washington Sunday.

A. G. Brietzke recently completed the construction of a small office building on his property on Third street.

O. P. Cook, who has been seriously ill for the past several days, is reported slightly better.

Mrs. Esther Newton has returned after a visit in San Jose, where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Reginald Stevens.

CURVE AT FIFTH AND ANN STREETS CALLED MENACE TO LIFE

On many occasions the Independent called attention to the dangerous curve at Fifth and Ann streets, Washington.

Wreck after wreck has occurred at this point, yet neither the State Highway Commission nor the Board of Supervisors of Yolo County has done anything to remedy the condition prevailing at that point.

The curve is a right angle with a roadway not much wider than ten feet. On the south is a deep hole in which a large telegraph pole is embedded. Any car going over this embankment is practically considered a wreck.

On the north of the roadway are the railroad tracks that mean destruction of tires or wreck of an automobile.

The Davis Enterprise of July 21st confirms the Independent in the menace this curve is to human life and property when it says:

The Enterprise has several times called attention to the section of highway one encounters just before reaching the S. P. bridge on the way to Sacramento. We have designated this menace as "Death Curve" and we understand the latest victim lost his life there a couple of weeks ago. "Death Curve" is met where the road turns to the right and continues to the S. P. Bridge. Accidents are occurring there almost weekly. There is practically no protection, particularly for the motorist who is not familiar with the road. At night this turn is especially dangerous.

It seems to us that the people who are responsible for the continuance of this death trap are deserving of severe censure. This condition has continued over a long period of years and still has not been remedied. It is a matter the board of supervisors might well take up without further loss of time. It is a piece of road that every careful driver dreads to negotiate.

HAYWARD REED HAS BEST PEAR CROP EVER KNOWN

Not less than 1800 tons of pears and probably 2000 tons of this succulent fruit will be harvested this Fall from the Reed orchard at Rose Orchard Station on the Sacramento Northern Railway.

Already the harvest on Hayward Reed's ranch has been started with one hundred people picking. All pickers are white and residents of the immediate neighborhood of the orchard, the majority being from Riverbank and immediately contiguous territory.

Men, women and children are employed on the ranch and go to their homes in the evening a few blocks away.

The Reed orchard has been known for many years as one of the most splendid producers in this section of the State, but this year the crop is particularly good being, as Mr. Reed says, the best he ever had.

Pears from the Reed orchard are not shipped East but have always been contracted to the canneries in Sacramento, thus returning assured benefits without any gamble as to results in glutted markets of the East.

In all the Reed orchard consists of one hundred and fifty acres of pears, of which between seventy and eighty acres are young trees that have just come into bearing.

When this latter portion of the orchard comes to maturity Mr. Reed anticipates a harvest of not less than four thousand tons, and that may probably run as high as five thousand tons.

It is Mr. Reed's intention to continue employing only white help, insofar as he is able, thus giving employment to the families of many railroad workingmen who are now out on strike.

The harvest will continue for a period of four or five weeks to come.

Mr. Reed has suffered considerably during several years past from pear blight and although a severe pruning and gashing was done during the past two years, there are still traces of the blight present in the orchard.

The Reed orchard is probably one of the largest exclusive pear orchards in this section of the State, and since prices are fairly remunerative, Mr. Reed is happy in the prospects that lie before him during his harvest.

SUPERVISORS OFF FOR EUREKA MEET

Woodland, July 24.—Supervisors F. B. Edson and W. O. Russell and their wives left for Eureka today by auto and Supervisors Wm. Leinberger and S. Gladney will leave by train for the same place on Tuesday. They were preceded by Supervisor Hutchins and Surveyor Proctor and John Kroninger Sunday. They will all be in attendance at the State Convention of Supervisors to be held in Eureka on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

ELKHORN ROAD IS BEING BUILT UNDER COUNTY BOND ISSUE

The McGillivray Construction Company has many trucks hauling road material to that section of the county highway, north of the Sacramento Weir and extending to Elk Horn.

The roadway has been graded and prepared by the contractors and gravel and asphaltum are being hauled from the plant of the contractors in Sacramento.

Not less than fifteen trucks of ten tons capacity are being used by the contractors in this work, so that the road will be finished before the end of August.

The cost of this road will be taken partly from the million dollar bond issue passed by the people two years ago and partly from the direct tax that was levied last year for this construction.

Inestimable benefit will be reaped by the farmers of the river district from this improved stretch of roadway. During many years those farmers have clamored for a road and now that their hopes are being realized they are extremely happy in the prospect of being able to get their crops to market without miring every few yards.

METRO FILM OPERATORS TAKE LOCAL CHARACTERS

Last Monday the Metro Photo Company of New York started filming pictures in Washington that will be subsequently made a part of the "Country Love" play.

Miss Billy Dove is the star of the entire cast, taking the principal part in all scenes filmed at this side of the river.

Nearly all children at this side of the river were taken in groups or singly during the process of filming last Monday morning.

Miss Dove and all the members of the party expressed themselves as being delighted with the scenes around Washington, making particular stress on the public school building and the town hall.

The large barge owned by Percy Hart and being remodeled into a river houseboat will be used for some time by the Metro Company in filming scenes along the river south of the M street bridge and as far north as Bryte's Bend and the Sacramento Weir.

Yesterday a report was current that another large picture concern was about to establish permanent headquarters in Washington or West Sacramento, but the name of the concern could not be learned.

The moving picture industry may become a permanent institution at this side of the river because of the great variety of scenery and the original condition of the landscapes.

REGISTRATION IN THIS SECTION NOW OVER 700

Tomorrow, Saturday, July 29th, is the last day for voters of the State to place their names on the registration books of the county.

Up to yesterday afternoon there were registered in this section of the county more than 700 voters. Of these Judge Barry registered 255, Constable Buckingham 269, E. C. White 50, and Joseph Contente 150.

If a full registration could be secured in this Supervisoral District there would not be less than 800 voters in this district.

Unfortunately, the harvest interferes considerably with registration, because at the present writing nearly all farmers are so busy they are kept going from sunup to sundown.

Any reader of the Independent who has not yet registered will be accommodated by Judge Barry or Constable Buckingham until 9 p. m. tomorrow, Saturday, July 29th.

SHORT LINE ASKS TO ISSUE BONDS

The San Francisco - Sacramento Railroad Company yesterday applied to the State Railroad Commission for authority to issue $200,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent bonds. It was stated in the application that the money is desired to make extensions and improvement.

Local officials said they have not been advised as to details of plans for the expenditure of the funds when the bonds are sold.

Don't outlaw the VFW sign

The Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) of the United States was established in West Sacramento in 1946. Since that time, it has served as a place for all veterans to find a warm meal, shelter from the weather, financial assistance, comradeship or simply a place to rest on a long journey. We want veterans and their families to know that they can count on us when in need. In fact, the City of West Sacramento recently issued a proclamation thanking the VFW for its contributions and service to the community.

For that we are truly grateful.

However, we now have a dispute with city officials regarding a local sign ordinance. It states that we are required to take down the VFW sign on our roof or face a large fine. It is a simple sign of three letters – V.F.W. These three letters may not mean much to the general public, but to a veteran traveling the nearby freeway, it is a beacon. They know it's a place to find help and a place that solace can be found with others who understand the sacrifices they have made for our country.

Instead of using our funds to pay city fines, the sign was taken down and that beacon now lies on the ground. Our stated mission is to assist veterans, their widows and orphans in need. With no roof sign that can be seen from the freeway, our mission is severely handicapped. Veterans in need will now pass this refuge unaware that assistance is near and readily available.

In 62 years, our members have donated in excess of $500,000 to local schools, charitable groups, and various youth programs, including soccer, basketball, baseball, football and camping programs. We have sponsored Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Sea Scouts, Jr. ROTC, assisted senior citizens, and driven thousands of miles transporting veterans to and from hospital appointments. We do not believe that our sign disgraces our community, but rather it enhances its image and the values our community stands for. Additionally, we believe there is some humanitarian and historical value to one of the first structures in West Sacramento.

Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary of Post 8762 are contemplating circulating a petition to exempt us from this ordinance and the restrictions it places on our stated mission. Our hope is to be able to raise our three letters to their rightful place on our roof once again. We ask that you please lend us your support when asked to sign this petition. We regret that we have to take this action to remedy the situation. Our service in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard protected the city's right to impose an ordinance that now hinders our mission.

Change the mayor

I would personally like to thank Mayor Pro tem Kristoff for the calm, respectful manner in which he conducted last weeks City Council meeting in Mayor Cabaldon's absence. There were a number of citizens there to speak against the gang injunction and they were allowed to respectfully complete their concerns without being cut off at the exact 3 minute clock as Mayor Cabaldon does (sometimes very rudely). The tone in the room was completely different from the uncomfortable, pompous and sometimes disrespectful behavior of Mayor Cabaldon.

At the previous meeting there were citizens from the Rivers with concerns about the placement of the Indian Museum. They had also attended a council meeting prior to the Assembly race that Mayor Cabaldon lost in June. When he thought he was going to be elected to the Assembly he was rude and condescending to the River's residents. But now that he lost the Assembly race and he realized that he was going to have to run for re-election as our Mayor, he could not have been more eager to listen to their concerns.

> We need elected officials to represent us in an honest and respectful way. We should not have to be abused for going to a meeting with our opinions and concerns. It is time for "positive change". November is just around the corner.

Housing market oversight

Regarding Ms. DeMars' guest opinion "Regulation isn't the answer to housing troubles" (News-Ledger, July 9), I can understand the California Mortgage Bankers Association's concern about over-regulating their industry. But isn't the lack of oversight the reason this disaster is happening in the first place?

Our government was told in hearing about this lack of oversight and impending crisis years ago, and nobody seemed to care. We find out that our gas prices are the result of deregulation of the market in which oil futures are sold, a law that was passed by the Congress and sponsored by the Bush administration. Testimony before Congress by people in the oil business less than a month ago indicated that we could lower the price of our gas by 25 to 50 percent within a month if Congress would repeal this law.

But people, it will not happen because Bush is an oil man first, and big business is making too much money to allow this to happen. Bush's new agency heads are all people from the very industries they are supposed to regulate, and this purposeful lack of oversight has had a devastating effect on our economy. If the California Mortgage Bankers Association and groups like them, and our government, want to solve this crisis and keep it from happening again, the answer is pretty simple: Keep in mind that the people that matter the most are the homeowners, the consumers, the persons who suffer the most if things are allowed to go awry.

As long as businesses are allowed to put their interests first, ahead of ours, we will continue to see policies that place us, the consumers, in jeopardy.

Unprofessional board member

I, as well as others, sat in total disbelief at the last WUSD Board of Education meeting as once again (Board Member) Matt Stegman carried on in his usual and customary unprofessional manner.

It has more or less become a regular scrapping match with Mr. Stegman and (citizen Dani) Langford at each and every meeting. I am not saying either is in the right or wrong, but Mr. Stegman is supposed to be an elected member of the board and required to act professionally. At the last meeting, after attacking Ms. Langford more than once, he decided to fire off on his own fellow board member Mr. Dave Westin. I watched as Mr. Westin in a very professional and low key manner tried to get President Kalar to stop Mr. Stegman and he simply gave Mr. Westin a "talk to the hand" in his face. He let Stegman carry on way too long, as Stegman usually does.

Board President Kalar, part of your job is to keep the meetings under control. You have no problem stopping public comments if you chose to. It was your place to stop Mr. Stegman as well. A member of the public actually spoke out in the meeting and told Stegman he was beyond out of control and very disrespectful.

Hats off to Mr. Westin for being the wiser and most professional member and voting "no."

As for President Kalar and the rest of the board, since all we ever hear is your job is to make and protect policy, please make one for board member conduct at meetings or make Mr. Stegman follow the 3 minute rule like everyone the board does not wish to here from because the public is surely not interested in hearing from him. If he acts as unprofessional in a court room as he does in a board room he surely must give half his salary back in sanctions. Maybe our school district should start sanctioning board members to help with the budget crisis or saving for the next round of top administrative raises.

I would strongly suggest the community of West Sacramento please come and attend at least a few WUSD Board of Education meetings to see what these folks claim to be planning to do with your money should you vote for another bond this November. I promise you it shall be very different than what they really do. This community needs to be aware of what the school district is really doing with the taxpayer's money versus what they claim they are doing with it. Please join us this Thursday evening, July 17th, 7:00 pm in room 75 at the WUSD as this will be the only meeting held this month. Meetings are normally held the 2nd and 4th Thursday of each month at West Sacramento City Hall but one much watch carefully as many, many "special" board meetings and workshops are held at very inconvenient times for public attendance in various locations. One can only imagine why that would be.

"Wanted"

Running time: 90 minutes
MPAA rating: R

"Get Smart"

Running time: 112 minutes
MPAA rating: PG-13

With so many great movies being released this summer, it's impossible to review only one a week, so I'm doubling up this week so I can do justice to films like "Wall-E," "The Dark Knight," "Hellboy 2" and others.

The first is "Wanted," a high-octane, adrenaline rush of a flick that any action movie fan doesn't dare miss. Holy moley, what a ride.

The film stars James McAvoy as

James McAvoy, Angelina Jolie

Wesley Gibson, a regular dude with a cruddy job who is enlisted by a secret society that trains him to unlock his dormant superhuman powers so that he can kill the guy who murdered his father (who was also a member of the "Fraternity.") Aiding Gibson is the über-hot and aptly named Fox (Angelina Jolie), and the sage leader Sloan (Morgan Freeman).

The action is non-stop, graphic over-the-top, and I enjoyed every second of it. Definitely check it out.

The next film you should see is "Get Smart." I know, 86 percent of all movies based on classic TV shows suck, but "Get Smart" is the rare exception.

Steve Carrell is perfectly cast as secret agent Maxwell Smart, and Anne Hathaway as Agent 99 is the perfect foil. The chemistry between

The plot is pretty straightforward: An evil spy ring, KAOS, has infiltrated the U.S. intelligence agency CONTROL and outed all its agents. So, intelligence analyst Maxwell Smart is made an agent in order to bring down a plot by KAOS to kill the president (James Caan) using a bomb made with stolen nuclear material.

What makes "Get Smart" so enjoyable is that the filmmakers didn't try to copy the slapstick and Catskills comedy stylings of the original series. Instead, they made a great spy movie in its own right — and THEN added some comic elements to it.

Add to the mix a bevy of celebrity cameos, and "Get Smart" is a great way to spend a summer afternoon in the theater.

The Black Death: A Personal History
by John Hatcher
(Da Capo, $27.50)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

Cambridge Professor John Hatcher's new book is classified as a work of fiction, but it is much more than a mere novel. Hatcher has written what he describes as a literary docudrama, a work that combines occasional fictional characters with real events. The result is one of the most fascinating accounts of the Black Death ever written.

Although most history books suggest the plague killed at random, that isn't really the case. Most historians, including Hatcher, agree that the Black Death was triggered by a combination of factors including poor personal hygiene, marginal diets and opportunistic rodents. Because no one was able to connect the dots, it evolved into one of the deadliest epidemics in human history. During this gruesome period more than 75 million people died, including more than a third of Europe's entire population, leaving both villages and cities decimated.

Hatcher, who has taught medieval history for more than two decades, sets his book in the rural 14th-century English parish of Walsham. By creating several main characters, the author makes accessible the thoughts and day-to-day lives of ordinary people as they struggle to make sense of the wave of destruction that ravages their small town. Make no mistake about it, even though some of the characters in "The Black Death" may be fictional, the basic information contained in this incredible book is based on fact.

What gives this story its legs is Hatcher's attention to detail and his intimate knowledge of the period. Other histories have relied on the records of clergy and nobleman. Hatcher presents the plague as seen through the eyes of not just the wealthy and well-connected, but of illiterate commoners. This is living, breathing history written by a gifted writer at the top of his game.

People in ancient India made the first candy with sugar cane.

What is the very first food you used in an illusion or trick?

"We smashed David Letterman's beautiful Breitling chronometer watch and reproduced it from a raw dead fish on a fishmonger's counter."

Name a food item one of you hates, but the other can't get enough of.

"I love raw tomatoes. Penn avoids them except in sauce."

The best convenience-store snacks are:

"Arizona herbal iced teas. I also like those really bedraggled soggy ham and cheese sandwiches that sport the label FRESH MADE."

Tell us about an unusual meal you had overseas.

"When I am overseas I eat canned goods shipped from the USA."

When you cook for friends, is there an item you are famous for?

"We never do anymore. We used to host taco contests in which the contestants competed to see who would get burned the worst."

Chocolate chip cookies: chewy or crispy?

"Trick question. Chewy if they're fresh from the oven. Crispy if they're just slightly burned with a bitter crust."

Most insane thing you ever ate?

"Lots of people would believe that I once ate a live Madagascar hissing cockroach, because I did it this fall on 'Celebrity Fear Factor.' What they don't believe is that nobody from the show asked me to. I just grabbed it and did it because it made the girls sick."

When the fish is about 3/4 done (about 6-8 minutes), add sausage, return pan to oven for another 3-5 minutes. Remove pan from oven and place on stove, low heat. Add clams and broth, and flip fish to fully coat with broth. As clams begin to open, add wine, cream, beans and vegetables. Continue to saute. Finish with herbs. Serve with sea bass on top of the ragout. Serves 2.

Can you drive?

The "Meals on Wheels" program is in serious need of volunteer drivers to help deliver meals to elderly, homebound citizens of West Sacramento. Volunteers may offer their services once a week, twice a month, or as their schedule allows, and may work on any weekday (except holidays) from 10:45 a.m. to noon. Other volunteers are needed to work the kitchens or as "runners," taking the meal from the car to the home. Call Mark at 373-5805.

Democrats

The growth in membership of the West Sacramento Democratic Club during the recent election campaign has created a problem: it is now difficult for the club to reach a quorum and taken any action at its meetings. 'Lost Luggage' project

The 'Lost Luggage Project' attempts every year to dramatize the ways in which children end up in trouble, and need help from the Yolo County foster care system. The project is looking for your donations of suitcases, backpacks, diaper bags, book boxes, etc., which will each be used to represent about four kids and illustrate the scenario that brought a child into foster care. For example, a red tag on one of the 100 pieces of luggage might symbolize physical abuse; a blue tag, sexual abuse, etc. Contact Hiedi Andersen, Coordinator, Family Fun Barn, (530) 867-1696 – cell, hiedi@mac.com. The exhibit will be shown at the Yolo County Fair in August.

Night Out

The National Night Out Against Crime will return the evening of August 5. The West Sacramento Police Department invites local neighborhoods to plan their own block parties, cookouts, ice cream socials or other activities.
